

James R. Zingelman

James R. Zingelman has been appearing on stages around the country since the big comedy scare of the late 1980's. You've seen him on television shows like A&E's An Evening at the Improv and Comedy on the Road.

He covers topics from growing up in a dysfunctional family to being a "not living up to his potential" student. He also writes and performs custom material for companies big and small.

James' brand of humor has been called clean, clever and weird by his audiences and peers. He's a sure hit with audiences of most shapes and sizes.
